TELEPHONE ENLARGEMENT

Four Officials Required Where Formerly One Was Sufficient

By the several changes made in the management of the telephone service in this district, it appears that Portsmouth is classed as one of the important districts of the corporation and the advanced business has required much attention on the part of the company.

The work now is divided up between four men which was formerly handled by the manager alone.

Charles Reynolds of Dover and a crew recently sent here will have charge of all outside construction work.

Frank O'Shea will care for all electrical work at the central plant on Vaughan street.

Edward H. Drew, the former manager will care for the commercial end of the business while O. J. Lyles fills the place of district traffic chief.

Under this new arrangement every end of the company's business in Portsmouth is covered and is expected to bring about much improvement for the benefit of the public and the company.

PORTSMOUTH LODGE OF ELKS OPEN NEW CLUB HOUSE

The Portsmouth Lodge of Elks opened in an informal manner on Thanksgiving Day, the finest Elks home it is side of Boston, and a club house that is as good as any in this city. The old Jenness property, afterwards the Merrick hotel, purchased by the lodge a short time ago, has been made into an ideal home. The large colonial building, although it was built in 1818, is admirably fitted for such a home, and with but a very few changes it has been made into one of the most home like clubs.

The property situated on the corner of Pleasant and Court streets, is 285 feet deep and 75 feet on the Pleasant street side, besides the three story brick building, there is on the property the meat market. On this side of the main house, a large stable in the rear and the bowling alley. In addition there is a good sized garden and room for all kinds of extensions and improvements.

In the time that has elapsed since the club took possession they have succeeded in painting and furnishing the two floors and the work on the third floor will go on at once.

House Well Furnished

On the ground floor there are four large rooms in addition to the large old fashioned hall. To the left of the Pleasant street entrance is a lounge room and the office, fitted with comfortable oak furniture and with the walls hung with many pictures. In the rear of this is a room that will be used for buffet lunches, this is in green and white and has a handsome sideboard of white enamel and gold.

On the right of the entrance is the reception room or reading room. This is furnished in old mission style, has a piano and many handsome pictures and souvenirs of former years, a large handomely framed collection of badges made by past exalted ruler Andrew O. Caswell at the annual session of the grand lodge in Dallas, Texas, has a prominent place on the wall.

In the rear of the reception room is a large banquet hall, very pretty in green and white.

In the hall over the stairway is hung the handsome Elk head, said to be the finest specimen in the state. It is handomely placed and a fixture in which every member takes pride.

On the second floor over the reception room is a ladies parlor. This is in green and gold and handomely furnished. Across the hall is the directors and officers room. This is fitted with oak furniture and contains a directors table, a large safe and desk and while from the walls are suspended the charter and other pictures.

In the rear of this is the bath room, neatly done in white enamel. Across the hall is a good sized card room. On this floor there is also one sleeping room. The third floor has not been finished as yet, but this will be made into six bed rooms, which will be let to Elks desiring lodging.

The house will be in charge of Fred Berry, who will act as janitor and with his wife they will live there.

To Build A Lodge Room Proper

The plans are for a proper lodge room in connection with the home, and for this it is proposed to build an addition extending from the Pleasant ant street side to the rear of the present brick stable, taking the space occupied by the meat market. This will not only give a large hall with a separate entrance from the home, but will give ground floor room that may be utilized for a pool and billiard hall.

In the rear is the large bowling alley, and for the present this will be run by the Lodge. Taken as a whole it is a grand piece of property and the members of the Portsmouth Lodge of Elks have good reason to be proud of their home.

A Flourishing Lodge

The Portsmouth Lodge of Elks along with being one of the oldest in the state is one of the largest. It was instituted Sept. 18, 1888 by the Harkwood, Conn., lodge and following the constitution a big banquet was served at the Rockingham hotel.

From that time the lodge has taken its place among the fraternal societies of the state and its growth has been steady until at the present time there are over 250 members, and it is expected that with the new home this number will be largely increased.

The past exalted rulers of the lodge are: True W. Priest, S. Plummer Jones, J. Frank Mudgett, John Griffin, H. B. Dow, D. Al Leary, B. P. Lawrence, John P. Tibbatts, E. L. Gupph, F. W. Hartford, A. N. Wells, J. E. Chickering, E. H. Drew, George D. Marcy, John J. Malloy, John O. Graham and Andrew O. Caswell.

During the twenty years of its existence it has assisted in the installation of the following lodges: Manchester, Dover, Portland, Nashua, Berlin and Claremont.

The Officers of the Lodge

The present officers of the lodge are:

Exalted Ruler—Ernest L. Chaney. Est. Leading Knight—Thomas A. Henry. Est. Loyal Knight—George W. Collins. Est. Lecturing Knight—Augustine Douders.

Finance Committee—J. Frank Mudgett, P. A. R., Charles E. Traflet, E. H. Eastman. Visiting Committee—Valentine A. Holt, Chairman, George W. Collins, Kittery, Me., James E. Field, Exeter, N. H.

The success of the present venture is due in a great measure to the efficient and hard work of Exalted Ruler Ernest L. Chaney, who has labored for a long time to get the lodge a home and to have it ready for them at once, and at the least possible expense. In this he has had the assistance of the officers of the lodge and the house committee.

WOMAN'S STORY STIRS FRANCE.

It May Implicate Noted Men In Great Scandal.

HUSHING DOUBLE MURDER.

Widow of Artist Steinhilf Says She Knows Who Strangled Her Husband and Mme. Jaquy—"Confession" Arouses Suspicion That She Knows Something of Mysterious Death of President Faure Some Years Ago.

Paris, Nov. 27.—The arrest of Mme. Steinhilf last night, following her confession yesterday that for months since the murder of her painter husband and Mme. Jaquy, who were found strangled in the home of the artist on May 31, her attempt to find the assassin and the innumerable fantastic clues furnished the police and the newspapers were only a desperate ploy to conceal the real author of the crime, whom she knew, affords Paris the highest sensation it has had for years.

The excitement produced from time to time by the Humbert, Dreyfus and Syveton affairs pales into insignificance by comparison, and the revelations pointing to the possible exposure of a national scandal promise to attract world-wide attention.

Unprecedented scenes were witnessed at the palace of justice yesterday, while the women was under examination, guards being required to restrain the crowds from entering. On the boulevards men fought for special editions of newspapers having in their accounts of the case, while in the halls of parliament the Nationalists created a hubbub by threatening to call the government to account unless orders were given immediately to probe the scandal to the bottom.

Minister of Justice Briand is reported already to have begun a secret inquiry into the case to determine the truth of the allegations printed here that M. Leydelt, the examining magistrate, entertained relations with Mme. Steinhilf which induced him to stifle the affair.

The insinuations behind this charge, which involve the remarkable life history of Mme. Steinhilf, have been on everybody's lips for months, and they explain the immense popular curiosity with regard to the crime.

Political opponents of the government, like Henri Rochefort, have been trying to make political capital of the affair by seeking to force an exposure of the scandal connected with the mysterious death of Felix Faure, president of the republic in 1899. Although hushed up at the time, it was common knowledge of those behind the scenes that Mme. Steinhilf was with Faure at the Elysee palace when Faure died. Some of the Parisian newspapers do not hesitate to print what they term the story of the liaison.

Immediately after Faure's death M. Steinhilf, who had been complicit in the friendship existing between Faure and his wife and who had accepted the Legion of Honor at the hands of President Faure, is said to have begun proceedings for divorce, but through the intervention of his family this suit was withdrawn a fortnight afterwards.

According to gossip, compromising papers of some political importance were surrendered, but Rochefort has repeatedly charged that others remained in the possession of Steinhilf at the time of his murder.

After Faure's death Mme. Steinhilf, who admits that she detested her husband, formed other alliances, some of them with men of political influence. She has confessed that at the time of the murder of her husband and Mme. Jaquy she had a lover. This man is believed to be a rich nobleman.

The police, being convinced that Alexandre Wolff was not connected with the tragedy, released him last night. It is stated that Mme. Steinhilf is definitely charged with complicity in the murder of her husband and Mme. Jaquy.

The anti-Semitic Libre Parole openly charges Mme. Steinhilf with having poisoned President Faure. The newspaper continues by charging that Chief of Detectives Hamard and Magistrate Leydelt knew that the arrest of Mme. Steinhilf inevitably would lead to the raking up of the scandalous mystery of Faure's death, which with difficulty had been stifled for ten years, and accordingly did their best to hush up the present inquiry. The newspaper concludes by saying that Faure was poisoned because he was opposed to revolution in the Dreyfus case.

A SEASON WITHOUT DEFEAT.

Philadelphia, Nov. 27.—Pennsylvania defeated Cornell in the annual football game on Franklin field by a score of 17 to 4, thus closing the season without a single defeat. Her followers are claiming equal rank with Harvard. It was Cornell's only defeat of the year and she fought hard to prevent it.

SMALLPOX UNDER CONTROL.

Hinsdale, N. H., Nov. 27.—The smallpox epidemic in this section is thought to be under control. The schools, public library and churches will be kept closed and all public meetings forbidden until danger is past. The situation is more favorable at Brattleboro, Vt.

ROOSEVELT TO VERMONT.

Says Philbrick's Example of Self Sacrifice Is a Lesson For National Life. Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 27.—Ernest Ver Webe's wonderful work as full-back on Harvard's football eleven, which defeated Yale last Saturday, has been recognized by President Roosevelt, who has written a personal letter to Ver Webe, congratulating him. The letter follows:

"Like every other good Harvard man I have the heartiest feeling of gratitude to the entire team who won the great victory of Saturday last. But I feel an especial self-gratitude towards you. You were our star ground player. It was through you more than anyone else that the ball was put in a position to enable Kennard to do the work which he did so admirably, and to kick the goal from the field.

"For the good of the team your individual good was sacrificed, and through this sacrifice and through the admirable work you had already done and through Kennard's kick a victory was won. However, it was a first example of the interest of an individual being subordinated to the good of the team—there cannot be any better lesson for our national life than to teach that the good of the individual must be subordinated for the good of our people.

"Now, I have the heartiest admiration for Kennard's feat. Kick the goal and he did a service that no one else could have done, and too much praise cannot be given him; but you are entitled to every word as much, and every man I have met here feels just the way I do.

"I wish I could think personally every man on the eleven, from Burr down, and Houghton and Graves and everybody who has done anything for the eleven, including substitutes and the second eleven."

FATE OF LECONTE IS NOT KNOWN.

He May Have Escaped From Haytian Revolutionists.

Port Au Prince, Nov. 27.—A dispatch from official sources announces that General Leconte, minister of the interior, who, it was reported, had been killed in the south by revolutionists, was not executed, but succeeded in making good his escape in a rowboat with a number of officers under his command, and that the rowboat reached Petit Goave, on the north shore of the southwestern peninsula. Confirmation of the news contained in this dispatch has not yet been received.

The government continues to send troops against the revolutionists. It is reported that requests have been made to the British and French consuls that they adopt effective measures to prevent Haytian refugees in Kingston and St. Thomas leaving for Hayti to join the revolutionists.

ON SIDE OF REBELS.

Paris, Nov. 27.—A special dispatch from Port Au Prince says that two other revolutionary leaders have taken the field. General Firmin, the leader of the revolt of 1902, at Gonaives, and General Fauchard at Jeremie. The dispatch says that the government regards the situation as critical. It reports also that the gumbet Nord Alexis has gone ashore off Aquila, making the blockade of Aux Cayes impossible.

WISER CONTROL NEEDED.

London, Nov. 27.—The Daily Mail, in an editorial on the Haytian revolution, says: "It would be an immense gain for civilization were the United States to intervene and render the negro that peoples unable to profit by independence or use it richly must submit to the control of stronger and wiser races. The Haytian population deserves to be saved from its murderous politicians."

LONG STRIKE IS ENDED.

Port Smith, Ark., Nov. 27.—A committee of arbitration, to which was referred a dispute which has raged up the mines of the Western Coal and Mining company at Denning for eight months, yesterday upheld a contention of the miners that the workings were very dangerous and recommended the employment of "shot-fires" when the men were out of the mines. The operators accepted the report of this committee and the miners will return to work Monday.

A TARIFF PROBLEM.

Washington, Nov. 27.—From testimony offered before the ways and means committee of the house it is declared to be evident that some reduction, possibly 10 to 20 percent, will be made in the duties on iron, steel and metal products when the new tariff bill is framed. No schedule of the tariff has been so difficult of interpretation by the approbators as that covering metals and their manufactures.

TO REWARD COURT BOYS?

Paris, Nov. 27.—Princess de Sagan, formerly Miss Anna Gould, will apply for a separation from the prince within two months and will sooner or later reveal her first husband, Count de Castellane. It is said on high authority. This step, says the informant, is now merely waiting for the determination of Count de Sagan's application to court for the transfer of his three sons to the care of his mother.

BIG LINER RAMS LIGHT STEAMER.

Ragged Hole Ten Feet Wide In Side of the Finiance.

FOUR PERSONS DROWNED.

Collision Off Sandy Hook Due to Dense Fog—One Woman Clings Frantically to Sinking Vessel, From Which Men Are Unable to Remove Her—Passengers Rescued With Remarkable Expedition.

New York, Nov. 27.—In a thick fog off Sandy Hook, the stout steel freighter George of the White Star line rammed and sank the lightly laden Panama line steamer Finiance, outward bound with eighty-five passengers. The Finiance went down within ten minutes after the collision, carrying to death three passengers and one of the crew. The rest of the passengers, who included thirteen women and fourteen children, as well as others of the crew, were rescued by boats from the George. The freighter was not damaged.

William H. Todd, third assistant engineer, jumped overboard and was lost. When a roll of the passengers of the Finiance was called it was found that Miss Irene Campbell of Panama, Charles H. Schweitzer, a policeman of Panama, and Henry Miller, a railroad conductor of Panama, had disappeared.

The disaster occurred in the main ship channel off Sandy Hook, as both vessels were groping through a fog that has hung over local waters for three days. The Finiance had crept out of her berth last Monday, bound for Colon, but down outside of New York's gateway, she ran into a blanket of fog, which compelled her to anchor. Yesterday it was thought that the fog was lifting and the Finiance weighed anchor, and she was picking her way cautiously down the swash channel when Captain Mowbray, who was on the bridge, heard the whistle of an approaching liner.

The Finiance was immediately ordered astern and was slowly backing when the George, inbound from Liverpool, loomed out of the fog and a moment later crashed into the port side and just astern the beam of the Finiance.

The prow of the freighter penetrated the side of the Finiance, leaving a ragged hole ten feet wide. The Panama steamer heeled far over to the starboard while men and women, many of whom had been awakened from sleep, were thrown from their berths. Hastily covering themselves with bed clothing and making little attempt to dress, they rushed in a panic to the main deck, which was fast filling to the surface of the water.

Many of the passengers jumped overboard before they could be reached by the crew of the lumber steamer, many not stopping even to provide themselves with life preservers. That more were not lost was due to the discipline of the crew of the Finiance and the prompt and intelligent work of the sailors from the George.

Immediately after the accident the freighter backed off and anchored, her commander, Captain Clark, in the meantime having ordered the lifeboats lowered. The boats of the Finiance were also cut away as quickly as possible, though with difficulty because of the heavy list of the sinking vessel. Attention was first given to those who had jumped overboard, a score or more of whom were picked up.

Meantime the Finiance was settling steadily. To add to the confusion there was an explosion of an ammunition tank in the forward hold of the Finiance and the flames drove the engines and firemen to the decks. William Todd, the third assistant engineer, was partially overcome and, struggling to the rail, threw himself overboard. He was not seen again.

Probably half of the passengers, with the crew, stood by the ship awaiting rescue, and these were soon off with remarkable expedition. When it was believed that all had left the vessel and the water had reached the rail, Miss Campbell was discovered holding tenaciously to a post of the rail. Appeals to her to throw herself into the water or allow herself to be taken into a small boat failed. Then two sailors clambered onto the half-sunken deck and rebuffed the terror-stricken woman. Her natural strength seemed magnified by madness, and neither man nor force could break her hold. The men abandoned her only in time to save themselves, the vessel sinking under their feet as they climbed into a lifeboat. With a despairing cry, the woman disappeared.

Captain Mowbray refused to leave the scene and, after the George had steamed away, Mowbray and several of the crew remained in a lifeboat near the sunken ship. Only her masts, funnels and part of the superstructure of the Finiance remained above the surface.

Captain Clark of the George states that he was feeling his way slowly into port and, hearing a whistle on his port bow, tried to veer off and thought he would clear the Panama steamer, which, unfortunately, began to go astern, with the result that the two vessels collided. The Finiance had over 700 tons of mail aboard. Four telegrams in the George's hold were undisturbed by the collision.

REID'S OPTIMISTIC VIEW.

Ambassador Predicts Four Years of Greater Prosperity Than Ever. London, Nov. 27.—Three hundred Americans and a number of distinguished Englishmen attended a Thanksgiving dinner by the American society at the Hotel Cecil last night.

Ambassador Reid made the principal speech. He contrasted last year's business depression in the United States, the gloom of which, he said, hung over London as well as New York, with the conditions of today.

"Business has resumed its healthful activity," said the ambassador. "Work again is abundant. Already the chief danger is the old familiar one that our enthusiasts may soon be wanting once more to get up too much steam."

Mr. Reid then predicted that the next four years would rival the last four. "Capital isn't going to be abolished just yet," said the ambassador. "Corporations and trusts are not going to be wiped off the face of the continent if they obey the laws. Free labor will continue to reap the richest harvests it can command anywhere."

The ambassador referred to the good relations that exist between the United States and all the powers. The United States is the only power, he declared, that could profit by a war, saying: "Brother Jonathan, though peaceful, is uncommonly commercial."

JOHN HAYES LOSES TO PIETRO DORANDO.

Italian Runner Wins Marathon Race by Sixty Yards.

New York, Nov. 27.—Pietro Dorando of Capri, Italy, defeated John J. Hayes of this city in a Marathon race at Madison Square garden. The distance was 26 miles 385 yards, the same as the Olympic Marathon, which Hayes won at London last summer. Dorando at that time fell from exhaustion and was helped across the line, but was disqualified.

However, he proved to be Hayes' master here, for he held the lead practically from start to finish, winning finally by about sixty yards. Hayes was in the lead five times during the race, but only for a few seconds each time. Dorando's time was 2:11:20.25, and Hayes' 2:15:05.15.

Ten thousand persons watched the contest and although partisan feeling ran high nothing more than good natured rivalry was the outcome.

ITALIANS HIGHLY PLEASED.

Rome, Nov. 27.—The victory of Dorando over Hayes in New York in the Marathon of the Olympic Marathon race was received with great enthusiasm by the Italian press and public. At Capri, Dorando's birthplace, a demonstration in his honor was held.

KETCHER WHIPS PAPER.

WAGNER SETS NEW RECORD.

Frenchman Driving Italian Car Wins Great Auto Race.

HE HAS SLENDER MARGIN.

One Accident, in Which Erie Rejoices a Broken Jaw and Broken Nose—Hennery a Close Contestant For First Honor, While Nazarro's Hesitation to Change Weakening Time Causes His Setback.

Savannah, Ga., Nov. 27.—The strength of six score horses, crashing and roaring in the cylinders of a Fiat car, through changing fog and sunshine over 102 miles of old roadway by Louis Wagner, won the most spectacular, the longest and the fastest international automobile race ever held in this country.

Fate played a game of hide and seek with the three men who fought with skill and daring for an advantage of seconds at the finish of the more than six hours of driving through shifting mists of fog and rain, storms of sand and gravel blown up by the flying wheels of the car aimed at risk of life and limb for the honor of a cup and a purse of gold.

The three drivers who clung together from the very start were shuffled about like so many cards. For a time there was a French figure in the leading column, but when little more than a minute separated the first from the last of the quartet, a piece of fortune sent one flailing from the road, out of the contest of wreckage Fritz Henne, who had been driving the German Benz No. 10, was taken with a broken nose and a broken jaw. Still the struggle continued, and it was not until the last minutes of the final lap that the tide of victory turned to Wagner.

Nazarro, the Italian driver, held tenuously a slight lead during the race, but fell, and then hesitated at a sharp place to change a wadding in the head lamp. The headlamps were rolling fast as he was about to enter the lower of the two and the three minute delay put the crowd's prize winners far away and his Fiat No. 4 back to a last to third position. However, in a former Benz No. 8, a favorite of the followers of automobile racing, he took second honors.

It was not until the eighth time was announced that it was known that Wagner had won by the slender margin of fifteen seconds. Henne was the first to finish in the sixteen laps of the race and, although he was the first of the six minutes' race which Wagner held, Henne having been sent away at the start at 9:52 and Wagner not getting the word to go until 9:58.

The minutes of a winning race hangy had through the big Benz car over the finish line seemed like hours to the audience, the misting car and like fractional seconds to the men who had already made the journey but had not yet won. It was just as the tide of the flying minutes was flicking itself away that the blast of bugles and the waving of watermen's red flags set up the roar of "his country" from the most wildly excited of the crowd of spectators ever gathered at a racing contest.

Eyes were strained low at the elbow of the strider, not a bit withdrawn, around which the ending car would flash into view. At last it came and it was real.

"Wagner, Wagner, Wagner!" cried the crowd and jolting down the straightaway with the swiftness of a locomotive on highly polished rails, the car sped on for the finish line. But the clouds of the crowd suddenly changed to an oppressive hush as the narrowness of the time margin was realized and it was not until the judges signalled to the anxious fifty group of Italian workmen in the supply cars that it was definitely known who had won.

Wagner drove a remarkably steady race. He stepped several times and once seemed to be in serious trouble, but the delay that took Wagner out of the lead in the twelfth lap of the race and gave it to Nazarro, who lost it later. The fact that a car of his own team won the race, however, was but little comfort to Nazarro. An Italian himself, he wanted to win in an Italian car. Wagner is a Frenchman. In 1906 Wagner won the Vanderbilt cup in a French car and his driving then over the Long Island course was a replica of the steady nerve and skill which he displayed so brilliantly yesterday.

Wagner set a new record for racing in this country. George Henne, son of the Vanderbilt cup winner, fell last month, set the new record in a mile and a half, but was not in the distance of 102 miles. Wagner's time of 6:15. He averaged 22.5 miles an hour of the sixteen laps, or 27.5 miles an hour. The fastest lap was made in 21:50, but the lap honors of the day went to the Italian, in the Fiat No. 10, who twice made the circuit in 21:25 or an average of about 30 miles an hour.

REPECT FOR AUTHORITIES.

High Prelate Says Religion or Nationality Should Not Count. Baltimore, Nov. 27.—In the course of an address delivered at St. Benedict's school here, Cardinal Gibbons said: "The church teaches that the civil authorities must be respected, no matter what the nationality or religion of the incumbent in office. I received a letter today from a man asking me whether he ought to respect Mr. Taft, the president-elect, because he was informed that Mr. Taft was not a believer in our Lord. I was amazed and can scarcely believe that the man was a true Catholic.

"You must have no less respect for those at the head of your government than you have for the pope in his department. There is a great evil in this land that forebodes revolution or a partial upheaval of society. The only way to avoid a catastrophe is to teach our young men to respect the authorities placed over them."

LAMPHERE CONVICTED ON ARSON CHARGE.

Murder of Guinness Family Not Mentioned In Verdict.

Laporte, Ind., Nov. 27.—The jury in the case of Ray Lamphere, charged with arson and the murder of Mrs. Belle Guinness and her children, last evening announced its agreement that the prisoner was guilty of arson. The murder charge was not mentioned in the verdict. The jury had had the case under consideration for twenty-four hours. Within five minutes after the verdict was reported, Judge Richter sentenced the defendant to the state penitentiary for an indeterminate term of from two to twenty-one years. Lamphere was taken to Michigan City today to begin his sentence.

When Judge Richter asked the jury if a verdict had been reached, Foreman Hill passed a piece of paper to Richter who read: "We, the jury, find the defendant guilty of arson and that he is 38 years old."

Following the withdrawal of the jury, Richter instructed Lamphere to stand up. The prisoner's face looked haggard and his eyes were downcast. Then, while the church bells were ringing their summons to Thanksgiving services, Richter asked him if he had any reason to state why sentence should be pronounced. He replied slowly, but distinctly, "I have none."

Judge Richter then sentenced Lamphere to the state prison in Michigan City for an indeterminate term of from two to twenty-one years. fined him $500 and disfranchised him for five years.

Attorney Worfolk, for the defense, says that a motion for a new trial will be made and, should it be refused, an appeal to the Indiana supreme court will follow. Worfolk declares the verdict to be ridiculous. "If he was guilty at all," said the attorney, "he was guilty of murder. He should have been acquitted."

DON'T DO IT

The people of Oregon took a vote of instruction to the Legislature as to whom should be given the election as United States Senator.

The people's choice was George E. Chamberlain, a Democrat who has twice been elected governor, despite the fact that the state has a clear Republican majority. The state went Republican on the presidency, the governorship and the legislature. Now it is proposed that the legislature, being Republican disregard the choice of the people and elect the Republican candidate to be United States Senator.

That might give a temporary advantage, but it would be poor politics to insult the people in any such fashion.

Such action on the part of the Oregon Republicans would at once make Mr. Chamberlain a national figure. It would at this early date make him a strong possibility for a presidential candidate.

And the men who have been Democratic governors of Oregon, Minnesota, Ohio and Indiana, are big enough now to set Republican party managers to watching them closely.

But inefficiency is not the most important reason against such action in Oregon.

The satisfaction of having dealt honestly is worth more than the election of a good party man to the United States Senate.

OUR HARBOR

If the harbor of Portsmouth and Kittery were located on the coast of any of the great European nations, here would be one of the great seaports of the world.

Some time in the future there will be a great shipping business done from the Piscataqua river, with one of the deepest natural harbors upon the coast of any country. It is deeper than any other harbor between Key West and the Kennebec river.

The series of articles now running in this paper, compiled by Mr. Holmes of this city, are impressive of the possibilities here. They show us our opportunity, and how great things have been done elsewhere with a proper chance.

Let us hasten the day of great things here for we can hasten it.

OLD MAN OF MOUNTAIN SUGGESTED AS FEATURE OF A STATE FLAG

New Hampshire has worried about all these years, says the Lancia Democrat, without a state flag, but the coming session of the legislature will be asked to design and adopt a flag to be used in connection with state celebrations, and to float over the state house in Concord when the legislature is in session, also when the governor and council hold their meetings, etc. Nearly all states have adopted a flag, which is displayed in conjunction with the stars and stripes on public occasions, and probably this idea which is advocated by the Paul Jones club of Portsmouth, will meet with the approval of New Hampshire people in general. The Granite state might have an appropriate and distinctive flag by adopting as its principal feature the familiar "Old Man of the Mountain."

FOOTBALL THANKSGIVING DAY

Maine Team Defeated at Newburyport, Southerly Wins From Puritans and Greenland Wins From Stratham

Cornell encountered a surprise on Pennsylvania on Thanksgiving day when on Franklin field they lost to that very much under rated team by a score of 17 to 4. The defeat was decisive and leaves no doubt of which was the better team. This victory make sure of Pennsylvania being counted with the first four this season.

Puritan Defeat the C. U.

The Puritan Athletic Club football team defeated the team from the Catholic Union at the Plains on Thanksgiving morning by a score of six to nothing. It was a close game and well played considering the weather which was anything but favorable for football.

Southerly Defeats the Mohawks

The football team from the marine guard of the United States prison ship Southerly at the navy yard, defeated the Mohawk Athletic club team at the Plains on Thursday afternoon. There was not a very big crowd for the weather was bad, but the game was close and at times interesting. The Southerly bunch proved to be the better team and won by a score of 6 to 0.

Maine Team Loses its First Game

The football team from the U. S. S. battleship Maine were defeated for the first time this season on Thursday forenoon at Newburyport by the strong Newburyport A. C. team. The sailors accompanied by their band and with upwards of five hundred rooters were allowed to come ashore early Thursday morning and marched to the depot, headed by the band, and here several extra cars were attached to the regular 8.15 train out.

The weather was bad for good football as it rained the greater part of the time, but there was a big crowd out to see the game, the arrival of the sailors being much heralded. The Newburyport team strong at any time was much more so than usual on Thanksgiving day, when some college players were worked in, and the result was that the sailors were defeated by a score of 8 to 0. It was a hard fought game, but the home team had a little the better of the goods and took the game, but not until they knew that they had been playing some.

The sailors returned to this city on the afternoon train and the majority of them remained over for the night.

Greenland Won from Stratham

Greenland and Stratham played their annual football game on Thanksgiving afternoon at Greenland and the home team won by the narrow margin of 2 to 0, forcing the visiting team to a safety.

The game was played on the Academy ground and there was a large number present.

Prisoners Give A Concert

In the afternoon the prisoners of the two ships gave their annual musical show and it was well done. There is a fine lot of talent among the prisoners and they showed off to a good advantage.

At the naval prison Major Leonard saw that the prisoners and guard had a fine turkey dinner and the men at the barracks were equally as well off.

On the ships special menus had been prepared with the turkey as the master piece and full crews enjoyed it. There was an exception on the Maine, where the greater part of the crew were with their team at Newburyport. Those who were left however had turkey.

At The Forts

At the forts in the lower harbor the men were served with a fine dinner at noon. Nothing was lacking and the men thoroughly enjoyed the day.

WENTWORTH SOLD

Famous Property Once More Changes Hands

The hotel Wentworth in New Castle has again changed hands and this week papers were passed which completed the sale of this big summer resort property to Mr. Priest, the owner of the Carolina, Preston and other hotels of Pinehurst, N. C.

The owner of the hotel Mr. C. A. Towle of Newton, it is said completed the deal on Wednesday by which the property goes into new hands.

The new owner, who is one of the best known hotel owners of this country, with a big winter business, will take possession at once, but his plans are not known, other than he says to run as a first-class summer hotel.

This is the third time the big property, one of the finest on the coast, has changed hands since the estate of the late Frank Jones was settled.

The farce, "Hooligan's Troubles," drew two large Thanksgiving audiences at Music Hall. There were many children at the theatre in the afternoon and it would have done good to the soul of Roosevelt or anybody else to see such a delighted lot of youngsters.

The toastmaster, in painted saw wood and letters and crimson banners and streamers were pending from the walls. On the arena curbs was inscribed: "You know your own degrees; sit down at first, and last a hearty welcome. The occasion was a most enjoyable one and the students spent the day in a merry manner.

A "Sunlight" dance was held on Thursday in Unity Hall. Although devoid of sunlight the affair was an event of much merriment. Dancing occupied the time till 6.30, when a supper was served which was followed by a moving picture entertainment. Dancing was resumed at nine o'clock and lasted till twelve o'clock.

The football game between the two rival organizations, the up towns and the down towns, was cancelled on Thanksgiving day and the young gladiators were not given an opportunity to fight in the arena. They are, however, husbanding their strength for a future clash. The football enthusiasts visited Newmarket in large numbers to witness the game between Exeter and Newmarket. Several, however, went to Haverhill to the Haverhill High-Lawrence High and Haverhill-Harvard Second games.

The prevailing mild temperature of this week has turned the thoughts of the ice dealers to the annual harvest. At the start of the season this outlook does not augur very favorably. There is, however, considerable time before the cutting and the turning of the meteorological balance are most whimsical. Thus there is plenty of chance for the successful of the ponds and streams. Here, last season Fred L. Colcord, despite the fact that the year was an unpropitious one for a beautiful crop, harvested a supply which lasted most of the year. However, for the first time in his term of business, he resorted to out of town purchases and imported several carloads from Kingston. Not from the fact that the supply was exhausted but to retain what was already in store. It was not till late in February this year that the harvest was gathered, while several years ago the date peaked as late as March. Thus far the ponds and streams have congealed only to a slight thickness and at present they are entirely free from the coating.

PRISONERS GIVE
ENTERTAINMENTGeneral Court Martial Men
On Southery

The annual Thanksgiving Day entertainment by the general court martial prisoners on the U. S. S. Southery was if anything the best ever given on board that ship.

It was attended by the commanding officer W. L. Hill U. S. N. and the officers and ladies of the navy yard, and they were greatly pleased with the most excellent program given by the men.

There is a bunch of talent on the ship and they certainly made good in every number of the program, while the orchestra was very much to the good.

The performance opened with an overture by the orchestra and they the military troupe of the U. S. S. Southery took the stage and gave a performance, which showed long preparation. A stage had been constructed and properly fitted so that nothing was lacking.

The following was the program:

PRESIDENT'S SPEECH.

Mr. Roosevelt Eulogizes Career of "Fighting Phil" in Civil War Battles and in Fights With Indians.
Monument Shows General at Close of Famous Ride to Cedar Creek From Winchester, "Twenty Miles Away."

Washington, Nov. 26.—In one of the most beautiful parts of the national capital he helped to save, the magnificent equestrian statue of General Philip H. Sheridan was unveiled today.
Among the throng of notable persons who gathered to do honor to the memory of the great soldier were the president of the United States, who delivered an address; the army and navy officers resident or stationed in and near Washington, the heads of the executive branches of the government, diplomatic representatives of foreign countries and others of note.

The statue stands in Sheridan circle, named after the general, at the junction of Massachusetts avenue and Twenty-third street. It is the heart of one of the best residence sections of the national capital.

The universal opinion of those who witnessed the unveiling today is that the statue of the famous cavalry leader is a worthy memorial of his fame. It represents the general at the close of his famous ride when, coming from Winchester, "twenty miles away," he rallied his men at the battle of Cedar Creek and turned their rout by the Confederate General Jubal A. Early into a victorious charge.

Statue True to Life.

The bronze general sits his bronze steed like a conqueror, but in hand, urging his men to greater exertion. "The clay of the man is a true representation of 'Fighting Phil' as he was in the flesh, and the metal horse shows the life his famous charger, Rhenz, sometimes known as Winchester, who bore the general from Winchester on the fabled ride. The sculptor of the statue, Gutzon Borglum of New York, has caught to the life the expression of the general's face, according to Mrs. Sheridan and her son, Lieutenant Philip H. Sheridan. The horse is a correct facsimile of Rhenz, according to careful measurements of his skin, preserved at the army post on Governors Island, New York, and photographs.

The clothing and accoutrements of General Sheridan shown in the statue are modeled after garments actually worn by him. He is depicted wearing a service uniform, with sword and spurs.

The statue is fourteen feet high and rests on a plinth of granite. The upper part of the statue's base is decorated, indicating the earth torn up by Sheridan's horse as he is reined up by his rider.

Record Bronze Cast.

The horse is the largest piece of bronze ever cast in a single piece in this country and perhaps in the world.
More than 6,000 pounds of liquid bronze were poured into the mold to form the horse. The casting was done at a foundry near Providence, R. I.

Preceding the unveiling of the statue there was a military parade in which all the regular troops, sailors and marines stationed in and near Washington as well as the national guard of the District of Columbia took part.

In addition to President Roosevelt's speech an address was delivered by General Horace Porter, who was chief of staff to General Grant and is president of the Grant Monument association. The principal address was delivered by President Roosevelt, who eulogized General Sheridan's army career both in the civil war and in the fighting on the western plains with the Indians. The president's address was as follows:

The President's Address.

It is eminently fitting that the nation's illustrious men, the men who have been heroes before the eyes of our people, should be fittingly commemorated here at the national capital, and I am glad indeed to take part in the unveiling of this statue to General Sheridan. His name will always stand high on the list of American worthies.
Not only was he a great general, but he showed his greatness with that touch of originality which we call genius. Indeed, this quality of originality has been in one sense a disad-vantage to his reputation, for it has tended to overshadow his solid ability.
We tend to think of him only as the dashing cavalry leader, whereas he was in reality not only that, but also a great commander. Of course the fact in his career most readily recognized was his mastery in the necessarily modern art of handling masses of modern cavalry so as to give them the fullest possible effect not only in the ordinary operations of cavalry which precede and follow a battle, but in the battle itself. But in addition he showed in the civil war that he was a first class army commander both as a subordinate of Grant and when in independent command. His record in the Valley campaign and again from Free-

GUTZON BORGUM'S STATUE OF SHERIDAN.

Forks to Appomattox is one difficult to parallel in military history. After the close of the great war, in a field where there was sent play to be won by the general in chief, he rendered a signal service which has gone almost unnoticed, for in the tedious, weary Indian wars on the great plains it was he who developed in thoroughgoing fashion the system of campaigning in winter which, at the cost of bitter hardship and peril, finally broke down the hardened strength of those formidable warriors, the horse Indians.

General's Career Eulogized.

His career was typically American.
For from plain beginnings he rose to the highest military position in our land. We honor his memory itself, and, moreover, as in the case of the other great commanders of his day, his career symbolizes the careers of all those men who in the years of the nation's direst need sprang to the front to risk everything, including life itself, and to spend the days of their strongest manhood in valorous conflict for an ideal. Often we Americans are faulted with having only a material ideal. The empty folly of the taint is sufficiently shown by the presence here today of our men of the Grand Army, yet the comrades of the dead general, the men who served with and under him. In all history we have no greater instance of subordination of self, of the exalting of a lofty ideal over merely material well-being among the people of a great nation, than was shown by our own people in the civil war.

And you, the men who were the blue, would be the first to say that this same lofty indifference to the things of the body, when compared to the things of the soul, was shown by your brothers who were the gray.
Dreadful was the suffering, dreadful the loss, of the civil war. Yet it stands alone among wars in this, that now that the wounds are healed, the memory of the mighty deeds of valor performed on one side no less than on the other has become the common heritage of all our people in every quarter of this country. The completeness with which this is true is shown by what is occurring here today. We meet together to raise a monument to a great Union general in the presence of many of the survivors of the Union army, and the solarity of war, the man at the head of the army, who by virtue of his office, occupies a special relation to the celebration, is himself a man who fought in the Confederate service.
Few indeed have been the countries where such a conjunction would have been possible, and blessed indeed are we that in our own beloved land it is not only possible, but seems so entirely natural as to excite no comment whatever.

Americanism Defined.

There is another point in General Sheridan's career which it is good for all of us to remember. Whereas Grant, Sherman and Thomas were of the old native American stock, the parents of Sheridan, like the parents of Farragut, were born on the other side of the water. Any one of the five was just as much a type of the real American, of what is best in America, as the other four. We should keep steadily before our minds the fact that Americanism is a question of character, of purpose, of idealism, of character; that it is not a matter of birthplace or creed or line of descent.
Here in this country the representatives of many old world races are being fused together into a new type, a type the main features of which are already determined and were determined at the time of the Revolution, war, for the crucible in which all the new types are melted into one was

Hawking, Spitting and Blowing
Machines, Says an Authority

Is it possible that in these days when cleanliness and sanitary reform is being preached in the churches, schools and at public gatherings, that thousands of people will continue to suffer from catarrah, when there is an absolutely certain remedy always on hand.

Hyomel (pronounced High-o-mel) is a pleasant, medicated and antiseptic air. Breathe it in and it will cure catarrh. It will stop foul breath, watery eyes, and crusts in the nose, in a few days.

It is Goodwin E. Philbrick to do it or money back, and such a guarantee ought to be strong enough for anybody.

Entirely Cured by Hyomel.

Having suffered from catarrah for about two years, and having tried numerous remedies without any satisfactory results, I finally tried Hyo-mel, and am glad to state that after using about one and one-half bottles I am entirely cured. I have recommended it to others with satisfactory results.—C. N. Lindsay, 497 East First Ave., Mitchell, S. D.

A complete Hyomel outfit, consisting of a strong, hard rubber pocket inhaler and a bottle of Hyomel, costs only $1, and extra bottles, if afterwards needed, cost only 50 cents each at Goodwin E. Philbrick's or direct, by mail, charges prepaid, from Booth's Hyomel Co., Buffalo, N.
Y.

Hyomel also cures Asthma, Bronchitis, Coughs and Colds, Croup of infants, and any inflammatory disease of the respiratory tract.

CHRISTMAS GIFTS FOR FLEET

Supply-Ship Celtic Will Carry Them
to the Mediterranean

New York, Nov. 27.—It looks as if Santa Claus is going to be a month or so late getting to the battleship fleet. He will leave New York about the middle of next month and the supply ship Celtic, and those who want to send presents boxes as big as you like—better hurry up and send the gifts aboard. His ship will be looked after by what will probably be the flower of the North Atlantic squadron—such fighters as the battleships Idaho, Maine, Mississippi, Montana, New Hampshire and North Carolina.

The start of the fleet will probably be made from New York, and they expect to greet the world-famous fleet at Negro Bay, Morocco, or at Gibraltar. Admiral Sperry is due at the former place on Jan. 31 and at the latter on Feb. 6. If sent by mail, Christmas packages weighing one pound or less are reasonably safe in reaching the fleet at Gibrartar. It is practically impossible now to send packages to the fleet so as to reach their destination by Dec. 25.
Admiral Sperry sails from Colombo on Dec. 20 and will reach Suez about Jan. 5. That was what brought the information that those who were content to get their gifts around a little late and send larger ones than the limited facilities of the mail would afford could ship them on the Celtic. All such packages should be marked "Christmas Gift" and addressed to the steamer at the Brooklyn Navy Yard.

There will be other things aboard the Celtic which will make the boys smile. For instance, there is an item of 15,000 dozen of fresh American-made eggs. There will be 500 tons of French meat, not to mention 375 tons of chicken, veal and mutton. Before the last dark day of the Celtic is aboard and the hatchways nailed down they will manage to cram in 2,000 pounds of flour, 1,000 pounds of sugar, 70,000 cans of tomato sauce, 100 boxes of apples, 100 boxes of pickles. So that the ships can be stocked up with and spun on the homeward cruise the Celtic will take more than 1,000 pounds of waste.

A Contrast.

In the Bank of England's museum may be seen the old oak chest which was the old lady of Threadneedle street's first strong room. It is a little larger than a common woman's chest, and in this the bank stored its cash, notes and valuable papers. Today the strong room is a formidable looking object, built of armor plate, boasts of huge doors that weigh many tons and represents the latest skill and science of the engineer and locksmith.—London Queen.

tried to fly by precipitating himself from the height of a tower with the assistance of wings attached to his arms and his feet. It is said that, having gone along a little way, he fell and broke his legs. He attributed his accident to failure to provide his apparatus with a tail, which would have helped preserve his equilibrium and made his descent a gentler one.

In the sixteenth century Leonardo da Vinci first demonstrated that a bird, which is heavier than the air, sustains itself, advances in the air, "by rendering the fluid denser where it passes than where it does not pass." In order to fly it has to fix its point of support on the air. Its wings in the descending stroke exert a pressure from above down, the reaction of which from below up forces the center of gravity of its body to ascend at each instant to the height at which the bird wishes to maintain it. Some sketches which have come down to us prove that Leonardo occupied himself, like Oliver of Malmesbury, with giving man the power to fly by the assistance of wings suitably fixed to the body.

We owe to Leonardo also the invention of the parachute, which he described in the following terms: "If a man had a pavilion each side of which was fifteen braces wide and twelve braces high he might cast himself from any height whatever without fear of danger." It may be said, too, of Leonardo da Vinci that he was the first to suggest the idea of the screw propeller.

Her Audacious Fight For Gay and His
"Beggars' Opera."

When the "Beggars' Opera," by Gay, was produced in 1728 it took positively by storm. The king still clung to Handel, but the nobility, with the Duchess of Queensberry among them, flocked rapturously to the "Newgate pastoral." The "Beggars' Opera" had a run of sixty-two nights, unprecedented in those days, and was one result of its success Handel became bankrupt. Suddenly there came an order from the lord chamberlain to stop the new piece.
Why, is not exactly known unless it was because the prime minister considered himself to be too faithfully represented therein. However that may have been, the theater had to be closed, whereupon the Duchess of Queensberry took up Gay's cause and vehemently clamored for it.

Very busy was she in those days, driving about in her coach asking for guinea subscriptions for printing copies of the forbidden play. And so headless was Kitty that she carried her list to the queen's drawing room itself and had the audacity to ask the king for a subscription. This was a little too much, and her grace was requested to withdraw from the court. Kitty announcing, with characteristic composure, that the command was very agreeable to her, as she had never gone there for her own diversion, but to bestow civility upon the king and queen.

Papua Island.

Papua Island was so named by the Malays, and the word means "frizzled," in reference to the hair of the inhabitants. It is generally supposed that Papua or New Guinea was originally part of the mainland of Australia. It was discovered by the Portuguese in 1526, though it was probably sighted by A. Dubois during his voyage fifteen years earlier. The Australian government, realizing the danger that would arise if an enemy seized land so near their coast, frequently urged England to annex the eastern portion of the island, and after two or three unauthorized annexations a British protectorate was established there in 1884.

Clipping Their Wings.

The costume of the Pu Yan Pen-jen women in the Shan states is very striking, consisting of a cloth hood, an open jacket and a pair of short white transers reaching barely to the knee. But the most important though the least noticeable part of their costume is their enlaced cloth garters. These the women are obliged to wear, as without them it is believed they would be able to fly away, leaving their husbands and sweethearts sorrowful.

Sweet and Low.

A young man named Sweet engaged to marry a young woman named Lowe.
A few Sundays previous to the wedding the happy couple attended church together, and as they walked along the aisle the choir began singing the song "Sweet and Low," entirely unconscious of the musical pun that was being perpetrated.

Thrifty.

"Well, parson, is your flock lib'ral in their 'nevolences'?"
"Liberal? Well, I should say dey is not that. Why, when I asked them to sing 'Ole Hundred' dey done sung 'The Ninety and Nine.'"—Harper's.

Two Bad Bites.

Diogenes being asked "What is that beast which is the most dangerous?" replied, "Of wild beasts the bite of a open their griefs are cannibals of their own hearts.—Bacon.

panic on board as the rapidly spreading flames drove the passengers to the rails and many of the excited
